INDEX TO VOLUME 36

A

Aalpoel, Justin A. (with Conklin, William S., and Grismer, Jerome T.), Hufnagel valve surgery for aortic insufficiency; technical considerations and report of cases, 238

Abbott, Osler, Discussion of papers on intrathoracic pheochromocytoma and staphylococcic tension pneumatoceles, 654

Achalasia of esophagus: further thoughts on surgical management (Tuttle, Crowley, and Barrett), 453

Adams, Ralph, Discussion of hypoventilation, hypoxia, acidosis, 742

Adams, William E. (with Harrison, Robert W., Long, Edwin T., Burrows, Benjamin, and Reimann, Arthur), Clinical significance of cor pulmonale in reduction of cardiopulmonary reserve following extensive pulmonary resection, 352, 381

Adkins, Paul C. (with Gwathmey, Owen), Pectus excavatum: appraisal of surgical treatment, 714

Albers, John E. (with Helmsworth, James A., Shabetai, Ralph W., and Wozencraft, Paul J.), Local effect of potassium citrate solution in atrial pouches of dogs, 220

Alley, Ralph D., Discussion thoracic surgery forum, 618

Alnor, P., Pathogenesis of cardiospasm; experimental study, 141

American Association for Thoracic Surgery, Announcement of Thirty-ninth Annual Meeting, 279, 757
- annual meeting notes, 139
- members, 127
- officers and Councilors, 126
- presidential address (Blades), 285

Anderson, Robert M. (with Kay, Jerome Harold), Autoclavable stationary screen pump-oxygenator with filmer, 463

Andres, R. H. (with Guastavino, G. N., Wikinski, J. A., Quinterno, J., and Donadei, C.), Ocular sign useful for experimental surgery with pump-oxygenator, 230

Andrews, Neil C. (with Klassen, Karl P.), Postpneumonectomy oleothorax, 199

Aneurysms of thoracic aorta; analysis of 179 patients treated by resection (DeBakey, Cooley, Crawford, and Morris), 393

Anthraco-silicosis presenting as a solitary pulmonary lesion (Davis and Snow), 185

Anticoagulant, circulating, and fibrinolysis: clotting deviations in man during cardiac bypass (von Kaulla and Swan), 519

Aortic arch syndrome, some clinical and pathological aspects of coarctation of the aorta and (Temesvári and Árvay), 247
- commissurotomy, transventricular, seven years' experience with (Glover and Gadboys), 839
- homograft replacement of main pulmonary artery (Robinson, Glotzer, Gilbert, and Hurwitt), 555
- insufficiency, Hufnagel valve surgery for; technical considerations and report of cases (Conklin, Grismer, and Aalpoel), 238
- stenosis, calcific, in adults, surgical correction of (Harken, Black, Taylor, Thrower, and Soroff), 759
- valve, prosthetic, experimental results with (Roe, Owsley, and Boudoures), 563
- valves, sinusal standstill with ventricular automatism during retrograde perfusion of coronary sinus under hypothermia for direct surgical approach to; experimental study (Massimo, Boffi, and Pozzi), 227
- valvulotomy, postmortem study of technique of, in calcific aortic stenosis by quantitative examination of valvular function by perfusion (Austen, Shaw, Scannell, and Thurlbeck), 571

Aorto-esophageal fistula: late complication following insertion of Hufnagel valve (Kittle), 44

Arterial distribution to right upper pulmonary lobe (Barrett, O'Rourke, and Tuttle), 117

Árvay, A. (with Temesvári, A.), Some clinical and pathologic aspects of coarctation of aorta and aortic arch syndrome, 247

Atrial septum, high defects of (Lewis), 1

Austen, W. Gerald, Discussion of thoracic surgery forum, 620
(with Shaw, Robert S., Scannell, J. Gordon, and Thurlbeck, W. M.), Postmortem study of technique of aortic valvulotomy in calcific aortic stenosis by quantitative examination of valvular function by perfusion, 571

Cahan, William G., Discussion of symposium on carcinoma of lung, 326

Campbell, Gilbert S. (with Varco, Richard L.), Management of outflow tract tear during Brock procedure for pulmonary valvar stenosis, 274

Carcinoma of lung, further studies in surgical management of; cases treated at Massachusetts General Hospital from 1950 to 1957 (Churchill, Sweet, Scannell, and Wilkins), 301 should we insist on "radical pneumonectomy" as routine procedure in treatment of (Johnson, Kirby, and Blakemore), 309

bronchogenic, results in treatment of; analysis of 1,008 cases (Burford, Center, Ferguson, and Spjut), 316

resection of, of mid-thoracic esophagus with primary anastomosis (Kunkel and Kunkel), 49

Cardiac arrest, elective, during total body perfusion: relationship of elevated intracardiac pressures during arrest to subsequent myocardial function and pathologic pulmonary changes (Ross, Gilbert, Sharp, and Morrow), 534 produced by injection of potassium citrate into coronary circulation, investigation of (Helmsworth, Shabetai, and Margolian), 214 bypass, clotting deviations in man during: fibrinolysis and circulating anticoagulant (von Kaulla and Swan), 519 without artificial oxygenation (Mustard, Sapirstein, and Pav), 479

surgery, topography of human coronary arteries in relation to (James and Burch), 656

Cardiopulmonary bypass, changes in pulmonary artery pressure during; experimental study (Littlefield, Dammann, Ingram, and Muller), 604 reserve following extensive pulmonary resection, clinical significance of cor pulmonale in reduction of (Harrison, Adams, Long, Burrows, and Reimann), 352

Cardiospasm, pathogenesis of; experimental study (Alnor), 141

Cardozo, Richard (with Hodges, Paul C., Jr., Thevenet, Andre, and Lillehei, C. Walton), Comparison of relative merits of occlusive and nonocclusive pumps for open-heart surgery; together with description of simple flowmetering method for clinical use, 470
